- (d) ESL at its absolute discretion considers it prudent or desirable for its protection not to do so.

Any moneys remaining after such application shall be refunded to the Client.

7. Indebtedness

The Client shall at all times be liable for the payment of any debit balance owing in such account(s) with ESL upon demand, and that in all cases, the Client shall be liable for any deficiency remaining in such account(s) in the event the liquidation thereof in whole or in part by ESL or by the Client. Please note that the interest rate may be fluctuated from time to time due to the inclusion and fluctuation of the prime rate (if applicable). ESL shall have the right to increase the applicable interest rate at our absolute discretion and the updated interest rate shall be reflected in the Client's account statements. Orders are to be received and executed with the understanding that the Client will be required to take or make delivery of the commodities (as defined in the Rules of the HKFE) unless the Client's initial position is liquidated. It is expressly understood that unless otherwise disclosed herein or to the Client in writing in the usual manner by EFL, EFL is acting solely as broker as to any transactions made with EFL by the Client. EFL shall have the right (in the absolute discretion of EFL, and without assigning any reason therefor) to refuse to act for the Client in any particular transaction.
- 1.2 EFL may, whenever EFL considers it necessary, sell any futures contracts and/or commodities and/or options contracts belonging to the Client or in which the Client has an interest, cancel any open orders for the purchase and sale of any futures contracts and/or commodities and/or options contracts. Such sale or purchase may be public or private and in such manner as EFL may in the discretion of EFL determine. At any such sale EFL may purchase the futures contracts and/or commodities and/or options contracts free of any right of redemption and the Client agrees that in respect of any such sale EFL shall have no liability for any loss thereby incurred (save in the case of any negligence or breach of duty on the part of EFL). The proceeds of such transactions are to be applied to reduce the indebtedness owing to EFL if any.

2. Account Set Off

- 2.1 The Client agrees to maintain such collateral and/or margin as EFL may from time to time in the discretion of EFL requires. The Client also agrees to pay immediately on demand any amount owing with respect to any of the Client's accounts. The Client understands that the Client will be responsible for all the expenses of EFL in connection with the above and that EFL will not be liable for any loss that may thereby be incurred (save in case of any negligence or breach of duty on the part of EFL).
- 2.2 EFL shall have the right (i) whenever in EFL's sole discretion EFL shall consider it necessary for the protection of EFL, because of margin requirements or otherwise, or, (ii) in the event that a petition in bankruptcy, or a petition for the appointment of a receiver, is filed by or against the Client or, (iii) when an attachment is levied against the account(s) of the Client with EFL or, (iv) in the event of the death or judicial declaration of incompetence of the Client, to: (a) satisfy any obligation the Client may have to EFL (either directly or by way of guarantee or surety ship) out of any property belonging to the Client in the custody or control of EFL, (b) sell any or all futures contracts and/or commodities and/or options contracts long in the Client's account(s), (c) buy any or all futures contracts and/or commodities and/or options contracts which may be short in such account(s), (d) cancel any outstanding orders in order to close the account or accounts of the Client, and (e) close any of the Client's positions without the Client's consent. - 3.3 Failure of the Client, for whatever reason, to deposit the full amount of trade/additional margins or variation adjustment before the prescribed time may result in the closing out of the Client's position(s) in whole or in part by EFL at any market price(s) at EFL's absolute discretion without prior notice to the Client. In such event, any loss, and/or deficiency resulting therefrom shall be fully borne by the Client who shall settle such accounts upon demand together with interest and commission thereon.
- 3.4 EFL is obliged to report to the HKFE and the SFC particulars of all open positions in respect of which two successive margin calls and demands for variation adjustments are not met within the period specified by EFL. The Client shall take all necessary actions to enable EFL to effect due settlement of each transaction. If both EFL and the Client have mutually agreed to make or take delivery of the commodity, then it will be subject to the arrangement of the delivery at EFL's absolute discretion.

5. Client's Acknowledgement and Agreement

- 5.1 The Client acknowledges and agrees that transactions related to exchange traded futures contracts and/or commodities and/or options contracts shall be subject to the rules of the relevant markets and exchanges and that such rules contain provisions requiring EFL upon the request of the HKFE or the SFC to disclose the name, beneficial identity and such other information concerning the Client as the HKFE or the SFC may require and that the Client agrees to provide such information concerning the Client as EFL may require in order for EFL to comply with this requirement. In the event that EFL fails to comply with the disclosure requirement under the rules of the HKFE, the Chief Executive of the HKFE may require the closing out of any or all the open positions held by EFL on behalf of the Client or request the Clearing House to effect such closing out on behalf of EFL, or impose a margin surcharge on any or all the positions held by EFL on behalf of the Client.
- 5.2 In case the Client wishes to have futures contracts and/or commodities and/or options contracts transactions executed in markets other than those organized by the HKFE, such transactions will be subject to the rules and regulations of those markets and not those of the HKFE, with the result that the Client may have varying level and type of protection in relation to those transactions as compared to the level and type of protection afforded by Rules of the HKFE.

In particular, EFL may apply such monies, approved debt securities or approved securities in or towards meeting EFL's obligations to any party insofar as such obligations arise in connection with or incidental to F.O. Business (as defined in the Rules of the HKFE) transacted on the Client's behalf.
- 5.5 The Client acknowledges that in respect of any account of EFL maintained with the Clearing House, whether or not such account is maintained wholly or partly in respect of F.O. 4. The Client agrees that any unit, share or interest in any unit trust, investment or mutual fund or any other products ("the Scheme") to be purchased, sold or switched upon the Client's instructions shall be deemed to be effected pursuant to and shall be governed by the relevant explanatory memorandum, prospectus, terms and conditions and constitutional documents applicable to the Scheme.
5. The Client shall be deemed to have read and accepted all the terms and conditions governing such Scheme prior to placing any order with EWML or giving any instructions to EWML, whether by telephone, fax or by post.
6. 7. The Client hereby acknowledges that the Client will be responsible to EWML for any loss, costs, fees and expenses in connection with the Client's failure to meet the Client's obligations by the due settlement dates as described in the respective explanatory memorandum, prospectus and constitutional documents on the Scheme.
8. The Client hereby agrees that the Client shall keep EWML fully indemnified on demand against all actions, proceedings, claims, losses, damages, costs and expenses which may be brought against EWML or suffered or incurred by EWML arising directly or indirectly in connection with any of the Client's instructions and/or information provided and/or breach of warranties and/or undertakings and/or arising directly or indirectly in connection with EWML accepting and/or relying on and/or failing to act on any telephone, fax or postal instructions given by the Client on the Client's behalf.
9. The Client hereby represents and warrants that if an Wealth Management Account is opened on the Client's behalf, the Client will submit to EWML the necessary information which the relevant Scheme and/or its distributor may require to verify the Client's identity and EWML are duly authorized to submit those documents for and on the Client's behalf.
10. The Client agrees to indemnify EWML on demand and holds EWML harmless, the relevant Scheme and its distributor and their affiliates in relation to any losses or expenses incurred as a result of any of EWML acting pursuant to these terms and conditions, including without limitation, any liability EWML may incur in respect of or arising from any undertakings or obligations EWML may provide to any Scheme or its distributor for the acquisition or disposal on the Client's behalf of any unit trusts investments or mutual funds or any other products.

Section G – Joint Account Holder

This Section shall be applicable to any joint account opened with Emperor by the Clients and if so applicable shall form an integral part of this Agreement.

1. Joint Tenants or Tenants in Common

The Clients hereby declare and confirm that the account(s) are held by us as in accordance with Paragraph 6 of Section K.

- (a) Where the account(s) are held by Clients as joint tenants with right of survivorship and not tenants in common, in the event of the death of either or any of the Clients, the entire interest in any account opened on the Clients' behalf shall be vested in the survivor or survivors on the same terms and conditions as thereinbefore held. The estate of the deceased shall have no interest in the assets of any such account at the date of death or in its operation thereafter. However, the estate shall remain liable for obligations in respect of such account as provided in Paragraph 3 below.
- (b) Where the account(s) are held by Clients as tenants in common, each of the Clients shall have a defined ratio of interest in any account opened on the Clients' behalf in the manner set out in Paragraph 6 of Section K. In the event of the death of either or any of the Clients, Emperor may, in the sole discretion of Emperor and without having to assign a reason thereto, either liquidate any such account or accept the instructions of the survivor, or a majority of the survivors, as the case may be, as to its continuance and as to the respective interest of the parties (including the estate) therein. In either event, the deceased's estate shall remain liable for the obligations of the account as provided in Paragraph 3 below.

If the Clients fail to declare and confirm the account(s) held by them either as joint tenants or tenant-in-common or any ambiguity arisen in this Agreement, it is deemed that such account(s) are held by the Clients as joint tenants.

2. Managers' Instructions

- 2.1 The Clients elect to have any account opened on the Clients' behalf managed on the Clients' behalf and the Clients hereby nominate the person as stated in Section K – Client Information Statement as the sole person(s) authorized to act for the Clients with respect any such account (hereinafter referred to as the "Manager", whether one or more person has been so nominated). Any such nomination may be revoked and any other person may be nominated in substitution therefor or addition thereto by a majority in number or all of the joint holders by notice in writing to Emperor. Emperor may in all respects accept the instructions of the Manager (or of any one Manager, where more than one person has been so nominated) in respect of the administration and operation of any such account. Notwithstanding clause 18.2 of Section B – General Terms and Conditions, so long as one or more persons have been nominated as the Manager and notice of the death of such person (or of all such persons, where more than one person has been so nominated) has not been received by Emperor, all notices and communications from Emperor shall be addressed to the Manager or, if more than one person has been so nominated, to the first-named. All dealings with the Manager shall be binding upon all of the Clients, and the Clients consent to all actions and omissions taken by Emperor upon the instructions or representations of the Manager.
- 2.2 If a Manager has not been nominated pursuant to Paragraph 2.1 above, the Clients hereby authorize Emperor to accept and follow the instructions of any of the Clients in all matters relating to the administration and operation of any account opened on the Clients' behalf and to make payments to and to deliver and receive funds, securities, commodities or other property to or from any of the Clients. In those circumstances Emperor shall not be bound to enquire as to the Clients' respective interests in any such account, nor as the application of any property or funds withdrawn from it.

3. Liability of Joint Account Holders

- 3.1 The Clients hereby state that whether the Clients are joint tenants or tenants in common, the Clients' liability hereunder shall be joint and several. This means that Emperor has at its absolute discretion the right to go against any one of them for the whole liability. In the event of the death of any one of the Clients, in the case of a joint tenancy the estate of the deceased shall remain so liable in respect of any obligations, debit balance or loss incurred before or existing at the death of the deceased in respect of any account opened on the Clients' behalf, and, in the case of a tenancy in common, the estate of the deceased and the survivor or survivors shall continue to remain jointly and severally liable for any obligations, debit balance or loss in respect of any such account (including those incurred in the liquidation of the account) until termination of the account.
- 3.2 The Clients hereby ratify and confirm all transactions heretofore entered into by any of the Clients in respect of any account opened on the Clients' behalf. This Section shall be binding upon each of the Clients and the Clients' respective heirs, legal representatives and assigns.
- 3.3 Each of the Clients and guarantors will remain individually responsible for the full amount of all liabilities under or in connection with this Agreement even if they cease to be partners (for example in the event of separation or divorce), unless Emperor agrees otherwise in writing.

4. Death Notification of Joint Account Holders

The Clients will give Emperor immediate notice in writing of the death of any one of the Clients in the event of the death of any one of the Clients (with the production of his/her death certificate issued by the proper lawful authorities to the satisfaction of Emperor as a proof), whether the Clients are joint tenants or tenants in common, Emperor may take such steps as Emperor shall in the sole discretion of Emperor (without having to assign a reason thereto) deem necessary or desirable to protect Emperor with respect to taxes and other claims. Before releasing any property held by Emperor for any purpose or carried by Emperor in any account opened on the Clients' behalf or which may be in Emperor's possession at any time and for any purpose, including safe-keeping, Emperor may require such proof of death, tax waivers, other documents, and instruments of guarantee by the survivors and/or by the estate of the deceased as Emperor may in its sole discretion (without having to assign a reason thereto) deem necessary or desirable in connection with the liquidation or continuation of any such account.

Section H – Agreement for Electronic Trading Services

This Section shall be applicable to any account which the Client has chosen to employ or use electronic trading services provided by ESL and/or EFL, and so applicable, shall form an integral part of this Agreement. This Section is supplemented by and should be read jointly with the other Sections herein in so far as they are applicable. The Client is reminded to read this Section carefully and thoroughly. If the Client has any doubt, the Client shall seek legal and/or professional advice

1. In this Section, unless the context otherwise requires, the following terms shall have the following meaning:
 - (a) "Electronic Trading Services" mean the electronic facility which enables the Client to give instructions and obtain information services provided by Emperor;
 - (b) "Access Codes" mean the Client's Password, PIN, User ID or such codes as may be notified to the Client in respect of the Client's access to ESL and/or EFL's Electronic Trading Services.
2. Upon the Client's request, ESL and/or EFL may provide the Client with Electronic Trading Services (being the electronic facility which enables the Client to give instructions to, and obtain information and services from, Emperor in relation to Investments) which include but is not limited to ESL and/or EFL's e-trading system and ESL and/or EFL's website. The Client acknowledges that the usage of ESL and/or EFL's Electronic Trading Services is subject to the terms and conditions to be specified by ESL and/or EFL from time to time and any applicable laws and regulations.
3. When using ESL and/or EFL's Electronic Trading Services, the Client hereby warrants that he is the only authorized user of ESL and/or EFL's user identification code(s), password(s), login name(s) or personal identifier(s) as may be issued by ESL and/or EFL from time to time and the Client shall accept full responsibility for all instructions placed with the use of his Access Codes (whether authorized by the Client or not).
4. The Client shall not attempt to tamper with, de-compile, modify, reverse engineer or otherwise alter in any way, or gain unauthorized access to ESL and/or EFL's Electronic Trading Services.
5. When the Client opens an electronic account with ESL and/or EFL, he shall duly complete, sign and return the Application Form for Electronic Trading Services. In addition, the Client hereby agrees to return to ESL and/or EFL the hard copy of this Agreement and Client Information Statement duly completed and executed by Client together with any required documents as soon as practicable.
6. ESL and/or EFL shall not be deemed to have received the Client's instructions or executed its order(s) unless and until ESL and/or EFL's message acknowledging receipt or confirming execution of customer's order(s) is received by the Client.
7. In addition to ESL and/or EFL's Electronic Trading Services, the Client may also give instructions to ESL and/or EFL by communicating with one of its sales representatives direct. If the Client experiences any problems in reaching ESL and/or EFL via ESL and/or EFL's Electronic Trading Services, he may use other methods to communicate with ESL and/or EFL and inform ESL and/or EFL of the difficulty which he is experiencing.
8. The Client expressly agrees that ESL and/or EFL may communicate with or give notice to the Client via ESL and/or EFL's Electronic Trading Services or by other electronic means or facilities and that any such notice or communication delivered to the Client by ESL by electronic devices through the Electronic Trading Services or otherwise shall be deemed to have been received at the time of transmission of the message to the Client.
9. The Client acknowledges that it may not be possible to amend or cancel his instructions or orders once given and hereby agree to carefully review every order before it is made.
10. The Client understands and accepts that ESL and/or EFL may at any time in its sole discretion and without prior notice to customer, suspend, prohibit, restrict or terminate the Client's access to the Electronic Trading Services and his ability to trade. The suspension, prohibition, restriction or termination of access or closing of the electronic account by ESL and/or EFL will not affect the rights and/or obligations of either party incurred prior to the time of the suspension, prohibition, restriction or termination of access or closing of the electronic account.
11. The Client is fully aware that the financial data or other information published by third parties are provided in ESL and/or EFL's Electronic Trading Services for the purpose of information and reference only. By reason of market volatility and possible delay in the data transmission process beyond the control of Emperor, such data may not be real-time market quotes whether for the Investments or otherwise. Whilst Emperor considers such data to be reliable, Emperor has no independent basis to verify or confirm the accuracy or completeness of the information provided. The Client shall in no way treat such data provided in Emperor's Electronic Trading Services as a warranty, recommendation or endorsement from Emperor in respect of any Investments.
12. The Client hereby acknowledges that any information provided in ESL and/or EFL's Electronic Trading Services is provided on an "as is", or "as available" basis. ESL and/or EFL does not confirm, warrant or guarantee the timeliness, sequence, accuracy, adequacy or completeness of such information and gives no express or implied warranties (including but not limited to warranties of merchantability or fitness for a particular use) in respect of such information.
13. The Client acknowledges and agrees to immediately notify ESL and/or EFL if:
 - (a) an instruction has been placed through the Electronic Trading Services and the Client has not received an instruction number and has not received an accurate acknowledgement of the instruction or of its execution (whether by hard copy, electronic or verbal means);
 - (b) the Client has received acknowledgment (whether by hard copy, electronic or verbal means) of a transaction which the Client did not instruct or becomes aware of any similar conflict;
 - (c) the Client becomes aware of any of the acts stated in Clause 4 being done or attempted by any person;
 - (d) the Client becomes aware of any unauthorized use of the Client's Access Codes; or
 - (e) the Client has difficulties with regard to the use of the Electronic Trading Services.
14. The Client agrees that neither ESL and/or EFL nor its officers, employees, agents, third party electronic information providers ("Information Providers") or third party electronic information transmitters ("Information Transmitters") shall be liable for any loss or damage:
 - (a) of any kind, whether direct, indirect, special, consequential or incidental, resulting from access or use of or reliance on information supplied by, or inability to access or use, the Electronic Trading Services, including without limitation damage resulting from the act, omission, mistake, delay or interruption of the Information Providers or the Information Transmitters, even if ESL and/or EFL, the Information Providers or the Information Transmitters have been advised of the possibility of such loss; or
 - (b) resulting from a cause over which ESL and/or EFL, Information Providers or Information Transmitters do not have control, including but not limited to any governmental restriction, suspension of trading, failure of electronic or mechanical equipment or communication lines, telephone or other interconnection problems, incompatibility of computer hardware or software, failure or unavailability of Internet access, problems with Internet service providers or other equipment or services relating to the customer's or ESL and/or EFL's computer system, power failure, problem with data transmission facilities, unauthorized access, theft, fire, war, strikes, civil disorder, acts or threatened acts of terrorism, natural disasters or labour disputes.

15. The Client agrees that ESL and/or EFL shall not be responsible for any damage to the Client's computer, software, modem, telephone or other property resulting from his use of the Electronic Trading Services.
16. ESL and/or EFL shall not be liable for any transmission error or execution delays in providing Electronic Trading Services to the Client save where such is due to its gross negligence or wilful default.
17. The Client agrees to indemnify and hold ESL and/or EFL, its officers, employees, agents, Information Providers and Information Transmitters harmless from and against any and all claims, losses, liability, costs and expenses arising out of or in connection with customer's use of the Electronic Trading Services. This obligation will survive the termination of this Agreement.
18. The Client agrees to pay all subscription, service and other fees, if any, that ESL and/or EFL may charge from time to time for the use of the On-line Service.
19. The Client acknowledges that the information made available to the Client through the On-line Service may be provided by ESL and/or EFL and/or any other person. The Client acknowledges that such information is the property of the person providing the same and is protected by copyright or contractual restrictions on its use. The Client agrees not to reproduce, retransmit, disseminate, sell, distribute, publish, broadcast, circulate or commercially exploit such information without prior written consent.

Section I – Risk Disclosure Statement and Disclaimers

PART A – RISK DISCLOSURE STATEMENT RELATING TO SECURITIES CASH AND MARGIN TRADING ACCOUNT

1. The prices of securities fluctuate, sometimes dramatically. The price of a security may move up or down, and may become valueless. It is as likely that losses will be incurred rather than profit made as a result of buying and selling securities.

Risk of Trading Growth Enterprise Market Stocks

2. Growth Enterprise Market (GEM) stocks involve a high investment risk. In particular, companies may list on GEM with neither a track record of profitability nor any obligation to forecast future profitability. GEM stocks may be very volatile and illiquid.
3. You should make the decision to invest only after due and careful consideration. The greater risk profile and other characteristics of GEM mean that it is a market more suited to professional and other sophisticated investors.
4. Current information on GEM stocks may only be found on the internet website operated by The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited. GEM Companies are usually not required to issue paid announcements in gazetted newspapers.
5. You should seek independent professional advice if you are uncertain of or have not understood any aspect of this risk disclosure statement or the nature and risks involved in trading of GEM stocks.

Risk of Providing an Authority to Repledge your Securities Collateral

6. There is risk if you provide Emperor with an authority that allows it to apply your securities or securities collateral pursuant to a securities borrowing and lending agreement, repledge your securities collateral for financial accommodation or deposit your securities collateral as collateral for the discharge and satisfaction of Emperor's settlement obligations and liabilities.
7. If your securities or securities collateral are received or held by Emperor in Hong Kong, the above arrangement is allowed only if you consent in writing. Moreover, unless you are a professional investor, your authority must specify the period for which it is current and be limited to not more than 12 months. If you are a professional investor, these restrictions do not apply.
8. Additionally, your authority may be deemed to be renewed (i.e. without my/our written consent) if Emperor issues you a reminder at least 14 days prior to the expiry of the authority, and you do not object to such deemed renewal before the expiry date of your then existing authority.
9. You are not required by any law to sign these authorities. But an authority may be required by Emperor, for example, to facilitate margin lending to you or to allow your securities or securities collateral to be lent to or deposited as collateral with third parties. Emperor has explained to you the purposes for which one of these authorities is to be used.
10. If you sign one of these authorities and your securities or securities collateral are lent to or deposited with third parties, those third parties will have a lien or charge on your securities or securities collateral. Although Emperor is responsible to you for securities or securities collateral lent or deposited under your authority, a default by Emperor could result in the loss of your securities or securities collateral.
11. A cash account not involving securities borrowing and lending is available from Emperor. If you do not require margin facilities or do not wish your securities or securities collateral to be lent or pledged, you should not sign the above authorities and ask to open this type of cash account.

Risk of Margin Trading

12. You understand that the risk of loss in financing a transaction by deposit of collateral is significant. You may sustain losses in excess of your cash and any other assets deposited as collateral with Emperor. Market conditions may make it impossible to execute contingent orders, such as "stop-loss" or "stop-limit" orders. You may be called upon at short notice to make additional margin deposits or interest payments. If the required margin deposits or interest payments are not made within the prescribed time, your collateral may be liquidated without your consent. Moreover, you will remain liable for any resulting deficit in your account and interest charged on your account. You should therefore carefully consider whether such a financing arrangement is suitable in light of your own financial position and investment objectives.

Risk of Trading Nasdaq-Amex Securities at the Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited

13. You understand that the securities under the Nasdaq-Amex Pilot Program (PP) are aimed at sophisticated investors. You should seek independent advice and become familiarised with the PP before trading in the PP securities. You are aware that the PP securities are not regulated as a primary or secondary listing on the Main Board or the Growth Enterprise Market of The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited.

Additional Risk relating to Investment Products including Equity Linked Notes (ELN)

14. You understand that Investor may suffer capital loss should the price of the underlying shares go against the Investor's bet. In extreme case, you may lose the ENTIRE capital
15. The return on investment is predetermined by the terms specified in the ELN. So even if Investor's view of the direction of the underlying stock price is correct, Investor will not gain more than the specified amount.
16. The return payable for the ELN is determined at a specified time on the valuation date, irrespective of the fluctuations in the underlying stock price before or after that specific time.
17. Unlike traditional time deposits there is no guarantee that Investor will get a return on Investor's investment or any yield.
18. The ELN is one of the many types of equity-linked instruments (ELI). Other types of ELI include the equity-linked deposit, which works on a similar basis to the ELN.

PART B – RISK DISCLOSURE STATEMENT AND DISCLAIMERS RELATING TO FUTURES TRADING ACCOUNT

This brief statement does not disclose all of the risks and other significant aspects of trading in futures contracts and/or commodities and/or options contracts. In light of the risks, you should undertake such transactions only if you understand the nature of the contracts (and contractual relationships) into which you are entering and the extent of your exposure to risk. Trading in futures contracts and/or commodities and/or options contracts is not suitable for many members of the public. You should carefully consider whether trading is appropriate for you in light of your experience, objectives, financial resources and other relevant circumstances.

Risk of Trading Futures, Commodities and Options

1. The risk of loss in trading futures contracts and/or commodities and/or options contracts is substantial. In some circumstances, you may sustain losses in excess of your initial margin funds. Placing contingent orders, such as "stop-loss" or "stop-limit" orders, will not necessarily avoid loss. Market conditions may make it impossible to execute such orders. You may be called upon at short notice to deposit additional margin funds. If the required funds are not provided within the prescribed time, your position may be liquidated. You will remain liable for any resulting deficit in your account. You should therefore study and understand futures contracts and/or commodities and options contracts before you trade and carefully consider whether such trading is suitable in the light of your own financial position and investment objectives. If you trade options you should inform yourself of exercise and expiration procedures and your rights and obligations upon exercise or expiry.

Futures and/or Commodities

- Effect of "Leverage" or "Gearing"*
Transactions in futures and/or commodities carry a high degree of risk. The amount of initial margin is small relative to the value of the futures contracts and/or commodities so that transactions are 'leveraged' or 'geared'. A relatively small market movement will have a proportionately larger impact on the funds you have deposited or will have to deposit: this may work against you as well as for you. You may sustain a total loss of initial margin funds and any additional funds deposited with Emperor to maintain your position. If the market moves against your position or margin levels are increased, you may be called upon to pay substantial additional funds on short notice to maintain your position. If you fail to comply with a request for additional funds within the time prescribed, your position may be liquidated at a loss and you will be liable for any resulting deficit.
- Risk-reducing Orders or Strategies*
The placing of certain orders (e.g. 'stop-loss' orders, or 'stop-limit' orders) which are intended to limit losses to certain amounts may not be effective because market conditions may make it impossible to execute such orders. Strategies using combinations of positions, such as 'spread' and 'straddle' positions may be as risky as taking simple 'long' or 'short' positions.

Options

- Variable Degree of Risk*
Transactions in options carry a high degree of risk. Purchasers and sellers of options should familiarise themselves with the type of option (i.e. put or call) which they contemplate trading and the associated risks. You should calculate the extent to which the value of the options must increase for your position to become profitable, taking into account the premium and all transaction costs.

The purchaser of options may offset or exercise the options or allow the options to expire. The exercise of an option results either in a cash settlement or in the purchaser acquiring or delivering the underlying interest. If the option is on a futures contract, the purchaser will acquire a futures position with associated liabilities for margin (see the section on Futures above). If the purchased options expire worthless, you will suffer a total loss of your investment which will consist of the option premium plus transaction costs. If you are contemplating purchasing deep-out-of-the-money options, you should be aware that the chance of such options becoming profitable ordinarily is remote.

Selling ('writing' or 'granting') an option generally entails considerably greater risk than purchasing options. Although the premium received by the seller is fixed, the seller may sustain a loss well in excess of that amount. The seller will be liable for additional margin to maintain the position if the market moves unfavourably. The seller will also be exposed to the risk of the purchaser exercising the option and the seller will be obligated to either settle the option in cash or to acquire or deliver the underlying interest. If the option is on a futures contract and/or commodity, the seller will acquire a position in a futures contract and/or commodity with associated liabilities for margin (see the section on Futures above). If the option is 'covered' by the seller holding a corresponding position in the underlying interest or a futures contract and/or commodity or another option, the risk may be reduced. If the option is not covered, the risk of loss can be unlimited.

Certain exchanges in some jurisdictions permit deferred payment of the option premium, exposing the purchaser to liability for margin payments not exceeding the amount of the premium. The purchaser is still subject to the risk of losing the premium and transaction costs. When the option is exercised or expires, the purchaser is responsible for any unpaid premium outstanding at that time.

Additional Risks Common to Futures, Commodities and Options

- Terms and Conditions of Contracts*
You should ask Emperor with which you deal about the terms and conditions of the specific futures contracts and/or commodities and/or options contracts which you are trading and associated obligations (e.g. the circumstances under which you may become obliged to make or take delivery of the underlying interest of a futures contract and/or commodity and, in respect of options, expiration dates and restrictions on the time for exercise). Under certain circumstances the specifications of outstanding contracts (including the exercise price of an option) may be modified by the exchange or clearing house to reflect changes in the underlying interest.
- Suspension or Restriction of Trading and Pricing Relationships*
Market conditions (e.g. illiquidity) and/or the operation of the rules of certain markets (e.g. the suspension of trading in any contract or contract month because of price limits or 'circuit breakers') may increase the risk of loss by making it difficult or impossible to effect transactions or liquidate/offset positions. If you have sold options, this may increase the risk of loss.

Further, normal pricing relationships between the underlying interest and the futures and/or commodities, and the underlying interest and the option may not exist. This can occur when, for example, the futures contracts underlying the option is subject to price limits while the option is not. The absence of an underlying reference price may make it difficult to judge 'fair value'.
- Deposited Cash and Property*
You should familiarise yourself with the protections given to money or other property you deposit for domestic and foreign transactions, particularly in the event of a firm insolvency or bankruptcy. The extent to which you may recover your money or property may be governed by specific legislation or local rules. In some jurisdictions, property which had been specifically identifiable as your own will be pro-rated in the same manner as cash for purposes of distribution in the event of a shortfall.

Your rights to assets held by Emperor in its omnibus account with any clearing house may be subject to Emperor's fulfilling its obligations to the clearing house, which may be further subject to Emperor's other clients fulfilling their obligations to it, despite the fact that you did not default on your obligations to it.

Your rights to assets held by Emperor in its omnibus account with any executing or clearing agent may be subject to Emperor, Emperor's other clients, the executing or clearing agent or their agents, and other clients of the executing or clearing agent or their agents fulfilling their obligations to their counterparties, despite the fact that the client did not default on his or her obligations to it.
- Commission and Other Charges*
Before you begin to trade, you should obtain a clear explanation of all commission, fees and other charges for which you will be liable. These charges will affect your net profit (if any) or increase your loss.
- Transactions in Other Jurisdictions*
Transactions on markets in other jurisdictions, including markets formally linked to a domestic market, may expose you to additional risk. Such markets may be subject to regulation which may offer different or diminished Investor protection. Overseas counterparties and that futures market are not subject to the regulation of the SFC and may be subject to laws and regulations which may be different from the SFO and the rules and regulations made thereunder and consequently, the client may not enjoy the same protection as that conferred on trading in a Hong Kong futures market

Before you trade you should enquire about any rules relevant to your particular transactions. Your local regulatory authority will be unable to compel the enforcement of the rules of regulatory authorities or markets in other jurisdictions where your transactions have been effected. You should ask Emperor with which you deal for details about the types of redress available in both your home jurisdiction and other relevant jurisdictions before you start to trade.
- Trading Facilities*
Electronic trading facilities are supported by computer-based component systems for the order-routing, execution, matching, registration or clearing of trades. As with all facilities and systems, they are vulnerable to temporary disruption or failure. Your ability to recover certain losses may be subject to limits on liability imposed by the system provider, the market, the clearing house and/or participant firms. Such limits may vary: you should ask Emperor with which you deal for details in this respect.
- Off-exchange Transactions*
In some jurisdictions, and only then in restricted circumstances, firms are permitted to effect off-exchange transactions. Emperor with which you deal may be acting as your counterparty to the transaction. It may be difficult or impossible to liquidate an existing position, to assess the value, to determine a fair price or to assess the exposure to risk. For these reasons, these transactions may involve increased risks. Off-exchange transactions may be less regulated or subject to a separate regulatory regime. For off-exchange transactions and Over-The-Counter trading, it is possible for your order left outstanding even if it met an executed price in the market. Before you undertake such transactions, you should familiarise yourself with applicable rules and attendant risks.

PART C – RISK DISCLOSURE STATEMENTS FOR EXCHANGE-TRADED DERIVATIVE PRODUCTS

Trading of exchange-traded derivative products (“Derivative products”) such as Callable Bull/Bear Contracts (“CBBC”), Derivative Warrants, Synthetic Exchange – Traded Fund (“Synthetic ETF”), Right Issues, involve significant risks. It is crucial for you as investors to fully understand the risks and consequences involved in trading these exchanged-traded derivative products before trading them.

General Risk of Trading in Derivative Products

- 1. Issuer Default Risk

In the event that an Derivative Product issuer becomes insolvent and defaults on their issued products, you will be considered as unsecured creditors and will have no preferential claims to any assets held by the issuer. You should therefore pay close attention to the financial strength and credit worthiness of Derivative Product issuers.
Note: “Issuers Credit Rating” showing the credit ratings of individual issuers is now available under the Issuer and Liquidity Provider Information sub-section under Derivative Warrants and under Callable Bull/Bear Contracts (“CBBCs”) section on the HKEx corporate website.
- 2. Uncollateralised Product Risk

Uncollateralised Derivative Products are not asset backed. In the event of issuer bankruptcy, Investors can lose their entire investment. Investors should read the listing documents to determine if a product is uncollateralised.
- 3. Gearing Risk

Derivative Products such as derivative warrants and CBBCs are leveraged and can change in value rapidly according to the gearing ratio relative to the underlying assets. Investors should be aware that the value of a Derivative product may fall to zero resulting in a total loss of the initial investment.
- 4. Expiry Considerations

Derivative Products have an expiry date after which the issue may become worthless. Investors should be aware of the expiry time horizon and choose a product with an appropriate lifespan for their trading strategy.
- 5. Extraordinary Price Movements

The price of a Derivative Product may not match its theoretical price due to outside influences such as market supply and demand factors. As a result, actual traded prices can be higher or lower than the theoretical price.
- 6. Foreign Exchange Risk

Investors trading Derivative Products with underlying assets not dominated in Hong Kong dollars are also exposed to exchange rate risk. Currency rate fluctuations can adversely affect the underlying asset value, also affecting the Derivative Product price.
- 7. Liquidity Risk

The Exchange requires all Derivative Product issuers to appoint a liquidity provider for each individual issue. The role of liquidity providers is to provide two way quotes to facilitate trading of their products. In the event that a liquidity provider defaults or ceases to fulfill its role, Investors may not be able to buy or sell the product until a new liquidity provider has been assigned.

Additional Risks of Trading Derivative Warrants

- 8. Time Decay Risk

All things being equal, the value of a Derivative Warrant will decay over time as it approaches its expiry date. Derivative Warrants should therefore not be viewed as long term investments.
- 9. Volatility Risk

Prices of Derivative Warrants can increase or decrease in line with the implied volatility of underlying asset price. Investors should be aware of the underlying asset volatility.

Additional Risks of Trading Callable Bull/Bear Contracts (“CBBCs”)

- 10. Mandatory Call Risk

Investors trading CBBCs should be aware of their intraday “knock out” or mandatory call feature. A CBBC will cease trading when the underlying asset value equals the mandatory call price/level as stated in the listing documents. Investors will only be entitled to the residual value of the terminated CBBC as calculated by the product issuer in accordance with the listing documents. Investors should also note that the residual value can be zero.
- 11. Funding Costs

The issue price of a CBBC includes funding costs. Funding costs are gradually reduced over time as the CBBC moves towards expiry. The longer the duration of the CBBC, the higher the total funding will cost. In the event that a CBBC is called, Investors will lose the funding costs for the entire lifespan of the CBBC. The formula for calculating the funding costs are stated in the listing documents.

Additional Risk of Trading Synthetic Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs)

- 12. Market Risk

ETFs are typically designed to track the performance of certain indices, market sectors, or groups of assets such as stocks, bonds, or commodities. ETF managers may use different strategies to achieve this goal, but in general they do not have the discretion to take defensive positions in declining markets. Investors must be prepared to bear the risk of loss and volatility associated with the underlying index/assets.
- 13. Tracking Error Risk

There may be disparity in performance between an ETF and its underlying index/assets. Tracking errors can arise due to factors such as the impact of transaction fees and expenses incurred to the ETF, changes in composition of the underlying index/assets, and the ETF manager’s replication strategy.
- 14. Counterparty Risks

Where a Synthetic ETF invests in derivatives to replicate the index performance, Investors are exposed to the credit risk of the counterparties who issued the derivatives, in addition to the risks relating to the index. Further, potential contagion and concentration risks of the derivatives issuers should be taken into account (e.g. since derivative issuers are predominantly international financial institutions, the failure of one derivative counterparty of a Synthetic ETF may have a “knock on” effect on other derivative counterparties of the Synthetic ETF). Some Synthetic ETFs have collateral to reduce the counterparty risk, but there may be a risk that the market value of the collateral has fallen substantially when the Synthetic ETF seeks to realize the collateral.
- 15. Trading at Discount or Premium

Where the index/market that the Synthetic ETF tracks is subject to restricted access, the efficiency in unit creation or redemption to keep the price of the Synthetic ETF in line with its net asset value (NAV) may be disrupted, causing the Synthetic ETF to trade at a higher premium or discount to its NAV. Investors who buy a Synthetic ETF at a premium may not be able to recover the premium in the event of termination.

Risk Relating to Rights Issue

- 16. For exercising and trading of the right issue, Investors have to pay attention to the deadline and other timelines. Rights issues that are not exercised will have no value upon expiry. But if Investors decide to let the rights lapse, then Investors will not need to take any action unless Investors want to sell the rights in the market. In that case, the rights must be sold during the specified trading period within the subscription period, after which they will become worthless. If Investors pass up the rights, the shareholding in the expanded capital of the company will be diluted.

PART D - RISK DISCLOSURE STATEMENTS FOR OTHER PRODUCTS

Renminbi Products

Below risk disclosure statement cannot disclose all the risks involved. Clients should undertake their own research and study before trading or investing in the relevant product. Clients should carefully consider whether trading or investment is suitable in light of their own financial position and investment objectives.

1. Renminbi Currency Risk
Renminbi is not freely convertible at present and conversion of Renminbi through banks in Hong Kong SAR is subject to certain restrictions. For Renminbi products which are not denominated in Renminbi or with underlying investments which are not Renminbi denominated, such products will be subject to multiple currency conversion costs involved in making investments and liquidating investments, as well as the Renminbi exchange rate fluctuations and bid/offer spreads when assets are sold to meet redemption requests and other capital requirements (e.g. settling operating expenses).

The Mainland China government regulates the conversion between Renminbi and other currencies. If the restrictions on Renminbi convertibility and the limitations on the flow of Renminbi funds between Mainland China and Hong Kong SAR become more stringent, the depth of the Renminbi market in Hong Kong SAR may become further limited.
2. Exchange Rate Risks
The value of the Renminbi against the Hong Kong dollar and other foreign currencies fluctuates and is affected by changes in the Mainland China and international political and economic conditions and by many other factors. For Renminbi products, the value of the investment in Hong Kong dollar terms may decline if the value of Renminbi depreciates against the Hong Kong dollar.
3. Interest Rate Risks
The Mainland China government has gradually liberalized the regulation of interest rates in recent years. Further liberalization may increase interest rate volatility. For Renminbi products which are, or may invest in, Renminbi debt instruments, such instruments are susceptible to interest rate fluctuations, which may affect the return and performance of the Renminbi products.
4. Liquidity Risk
Renminbi products may suffer significant losses in liquidating the underlying investment, especially if such investments do not have an active secondary market and their prices have large bid / offer spread.
5. Limitation on the Provision of Renminbi Funding
If the Clients do not have sufficient Renminbi funding to subscribe Renminbi products, subject to compliance with all applicable laws, rules and regulations, we may assist the Clients to convert other currencies to Renminbi. However, we do not guarantee that it can provide sufficient Renminbi funding for the Clients due to the limitation on the flow of Renminbi funds in Hong Kong SAR. We may unwind the Clients' trade due to insufficient Renminbi funding and the Clients' investment may be adversely affected if the Clients suffer losses due to settlement failure.
6. Limited Availability of Underlying Investments Denominated in Renminbi
For Renminbi products that do not have access to invest directly in Mainland China, their available choice of underlying investments denominated in Renminbi outside Mainland China may be limited. Such limitation may adversely affect the return and performance of the Renminbi products.
7. No Guarantee for Projected Returns
For some Renminbi investment products, their return may not be guaranteed or may only be partly guaranteed. Clients should read carefully the statement of illustrative return attached to such products and in particular, the assumptions on which the illustrations are based, including, for example, any future bonus or dividend declaration.
8. Long Term Commitment to Investment Products
For Renminbi products which involve a long period of investment, if the Clients redeem the Clients' investment before the maturity date or during the lock-up period (if applicable), the Clients may incur a significant loss of principal where the proceeds may be substantially lower than the Clients' invested amount. The Clients may also suffer from early surrender / withdrawal fees and charges as well as the loss of returns (where applicable) as a result of redemption before the maturity date or during lock-up period.
9. Credit Risk of Counterparties
For Renminbi products invested in Renminbi debt instruments which are not supported by any collateral, such products are fully exposed to the credit risk of the relevant counterparties. Where a Renminbi product may invest in derivative instruments, counterparty risk may also arise as the default by the derivative issuers may adversely affect the performance of the Renminbi product and result in substantial loss.
10. Possibility of Not Receiving Renminbi upon Redemption
For Renminbi products with a significant portion of non-Renminbi denominated underlying investments, there is a possibility of not receiving the full amount in Renminbi upon redemption. This may be the case if the issuer is not able to obtain sufficient amount of Renminbi in a timely manner due to the exchange controls and restrictions applicable to the currency.

Bond (Fixed Income)

Below risk statement cannot disclose all of the risks and other significant aspects of trading in Bonds. Clients should carefully consider whether trading is suitable in light of their experience, objectives, financial resources and other relevant circumstances.

1. Key risks of investing in bonds
 - 1.1 Credit risk - bonds are subject to the risk of the issuer defaulting on its obligations. It should also be noted that credit ratings assigned by credit rating agencies do not guarantee the creditworthiness of the issuer;
 - 1.2 Liquidity risk - some bonds may not have active secondary markets and it would be difficult or impossible for Investors to sell the bond before its maturity; and
 - 1.3 Interest rate risk – bonds are more susceptible to fluctuations in interest rates and generally prices of bonds will fall when interest rates rise.
2. Key risks of investing in high-yield bonds
In addition to the generic risks listed above, investments in high-yield bonds are subject to risks such as:
 - 2.1 Higher credit risk - since they are typically rated below investment grade or are unrated and as such are often subject to a higher risk of issuer default;
 - 2.2 Vulnerability to economic cycles - during economic downturns such bonds typically fall more in value than investment grade bonds as (i) Investors become more risk averse and (ii) default risk rises.
3. Bonds with special features
Furthermore, some bonds may contain special features and risks that warrant special attention. These include bonds:
 - 3.1 That are perpetual in nature and interest pay-out depends on the viability of the issuer in the very long term;
 - 3.2 That have subordinated ranking and in case of liquidation of the issuer, Investors can only get back the principal after other senior creditors are paid;
 - 3.3 That are callable and Investors face reinvestment risk when the issuer exercises its right to redeem the bond before it matures;
 - 3.4 That have variable and/or deferral of interest payment terms and Investors would face uncertainty over the amount and time of the interest payments to be received;

- 3.5 That have extendable maturity dates and Investors would not have a definite schedule of principal repayment;
- 3.6 That are convertible or exchangeable in nature and Investors are subject to both equity and bond investment risk; and/or
- 3.7 That have contingent write down or loss absorption feature and the bond may be written-off fully or partially or converted to common stock on the occurrence of a trigger event.

4. Funds investing in high-yield bonds

- 4.1 Capital growth risk - some high-yield bond funds may have fees and/ or dividends paid out of capital. As a result, the capital that the fund has available for investment in the future and capital growth may be reduced;
- 4.2 Dividend distributions - some high-yield bond funds may not distribute dividends, but instead reinvest the dividends into the fund or alternatively, the investment manager may have discretion on whether or not to make any distribution out of income and/ or capital of the fund. Also, a high distribution yield does not imply a positive or high return on the total investment; and
- 4.3 Other key risks that may relate to the relevant fund including concentration of investments in particular types of specialized debt or a specific geographical region or sovereign securities.

- 2.2 For “Shares under Delisting Arrangement”, the listing of such shares has already been resolved to terminate by the Exchange. The risk of investing in “Shares under Delisting Arrangement” is relatively large as its listing shall be terminated upon expiration of the prescribed time period.
- 2.3 “Shares under Delisting Arrangement” shall only be traded for a continuous period of 30 trade days from the commencement of the delisting arrangement period. Upon expiration of the prescribed time period, the shares shall be delisted and the Exchange shall terminate its listing. Investor should closely take note of the remaining trade days for shares in the delisting arrangement period as well as their last trading day otherwise Investor may lose the opportunity to close out the position and result in unnecessary losses. During the delisting arrangement period, the 30-trade-day period shall not include any day on which the trade of main board, SME board and/or GEM board’s shares is suspended for a whole day.
- 2.4 Investor trading “Shares under Delisting Arrangement” of Shanghai Stock Exchange should adopt limit orders.

- 2.8 In accordance with the prevailing relevant rules, the issuer delisted from Main board, SME Board and/or GEM Board may apply to the Exchange for re-listing. However, subject to the fulfillment of specified application requirements and therefore, the relisting application involves significant uncertainty.
- 2.9 Investor should pay particular attention to any risk indication announcement relating to “Shares in Delisting Arrangement Period” and obtain relevant information publicized through the designated media, the issuer’s website and brokerage house’s website etc.

Leveraged and Inverse Products (L&I Products)

Leveraged Products typically aim to deliver a daily return equivalent to a multiple of the underlying index return that they track. For example, if the underlying index rises by 10 per cent on a given day, a two-time (2x) Leveraged Product aims to deliver a 20 per cent return on that day. Inverse Products typically aim to deliver the opposite of the daily return of the underlying index that they track. For example, if the underlying index rises by 10 per cent on a given day, an Inverse Product should incur a 10 per cent loss on that day.

To produce the specified leveraged or inverse return, these products have to rebalance their portfolios, typically on a daily basis. L&I Products are derivative products. L&I Products structured as Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs) are authorised by the Securities and Futures Commission (SFC) as Collective Investment Schemes (CIS) and are listed and traded on the securities market of HKEX. It is different from conventional exchange traded funds as it typically seeks inverse investment results relative to the index and on a daily basis. In overseas markets, L&I Products are commonly known as Leveraged and/or Inverse ETFs.

1. Product Structure

Both swap-based synthetic replication and futures-based replication structures are allowed for L&I Products subject to SFC authorization. The caps on the leverage factor are provided on the website of the HKEX, subject to review going forward.

2. Attributes

- 2.1 Trading counters for L&I Products
L&I Products can be traded, cleared and settled in HKD, RMB and/or USD. Multiple counters of L&I Products are permissible, subject to the approval of the SFC and HKEX.
- 2.2 Short selling and tick rule exemption for L&I Products
Subject to approval by the SFC, an individual L&I Product may be designated for short selling with tick rule exemption from its listing day.
- 2.3 Settlement arrangements
T+2 through CCASS on a Continuous Net Settlement (CNS) basis, similar to ETFs and other securities.
- 2.4 Fees and charges
A L&I Product incurs certain fees and expenses such as management fees charged by the product manager and other administrative costs. Like stocks, trading L&I Products on the SEHK incurs transaction costs such as trading fee, transaction levy and brokerage commission. For details, please refer to Emperor's website.
- 2.5 Performance simulator
Performance simulators will be provided by L&I Product providers to facilitate the understanding of L&I Products to interested retail investors. The performance simulators should allow investors to select a historical time period and simulate the performance of the L&I Product during that time period based on historical data. The historical period available in the performance simulator should cover the period since the launch of the L&I Product. For detail, please refer to the hyperlinks to the performance simulator for each L&I Product posted on HKEX's L&I Product webpage.
- 2.6 Market making arrangements
At least one market maker for the L&I Products at the commencement of trading and on an ongoing basis.

3. Key risks disclosures

Investment involves risks. The risks of investing in different L&I products vary due to the difference in product structure, investors are highly recommended to read the prospectus and key facts sheet carefully in order to understand the risks involved in a specific L&I product.

3.1 Investment risk

The L&I product is a derivative product and is not suitable for all investors. There is no guarantee of the repayment of principal. Therefore the Client's investment in the L&I product may suffer substantial/total losses.

- 3.2 Long term holding risk
The L&I product is not intended for holding longer than one day as the performance of the L&I product over a period longer than one day will very likely differ in amount and possibly direction from the leveraged performance of the index over that same period (e.g. the loss may be more than twice the fall in the index).
The effect of compounding becomes more pronounced on the L&I product's performance as the index experiences volatility. With higher index volatility, the deviation of the L&I product's performance from the leveraged performance of the index will increase, and the performance of the L&I product will generally be adversely affected.
As a result of daily rebalancing, the index's volatility and the effects of compounding of each day's return over time, it is even possible that the L&I product will lose money over time while the index's performance increases or is flat.
- 3.3 Leverage risk
Leveraged Products typically aim to deliver a daily return equivalent to a multiple of the underlying index return that they track. Inverse Products typically aim to deliver the opposite of the daily return of the underlying index that they track. Both gains and losses will be magnified. The risk of loss resulting from an investment in the L&I product in certain circumstances will be substantially more than a fund that does not employ leverage.
- 3.4 Inverse Product vs. short selling risk
Investing in the Inverse Product is different from taking a short position. Because of rebalancing, the return profile of the Inverse Product is not the same as that of a short position. In a volatile market with frequent directional swings, the performance of the Inverse Product may deviate from a short position.
- 3.5 Risk of rebalancing activities
There is no assurance that the L&I product can rebalance their portfolio on a daily basis to achieve their investment objectives. Market disruption, regulatory restrictions or extreme market volatility may adversely affect the L&I product's ability to rebalance its portfolio.
- 3.6 Liquidity risk
The rebalancing activities of the L&I product typically take place near the end of a trading day, shortly before the close of the underlying market, to minimise tracking difference. As a result, the L&I product may be more exposed to the market conditions during a shorter interval and maybe more subject to liquidity risk.
- 3.7 Intraday investment risk
The L&I product is normally rebalanced at day end. As such, return for investors that invest for period less than a full trading day will generally be differs from the leveraged investment exposure to the index, depending upon the movement of the index from the end of one trading day until the time of purchase.
- 3.8 Portfolio turnover risk
Daily rebalancing of L&I product's holdings causes a higher level of portfolio transactions than compared to the conventional ETFs. High levels of transactions increase brokerage and other transaction costs.
- 3.9 Futures contracts risk
If the L&I product is a futures based product, investment in futures contracts involves specific risks such as high volatility, leverage, rollover and margin risks. The leverage component of futures contracts can result in a loss significantly greater than the amount invested in the futures contracts by the L&I product. Exposures to futures contracts may lead to a high risk of significant loss by the L&I product.
A "roll" occurs when an existing futures contract is about to expire and is replaced with a futures contract representing the same underlying but with a later expiration date. The value of the L&I product's portfolio (and so the Net Asset Value per unit) may be adversely affected by the cost of rolling positions forward (due to the higher price of the futures contract with a later expiration date) as the futures contracts approach expiry.

There may be imperfect correlation between the value of the underlying reference assets and the futures contracts, which may prevent the L&I product from achieving its investment objective.
- 3.10 Foreign exchange risk
If the base currency of the L&I product is different from that of the underlying index, fluctuations in the exchange rates between currencies may have an adverse impact on the performance of the L&I product.
- 3.11 Distributions risk
Where distributions are distributed out of capital or effectively out of capital, this amounts to a return or withdrawal of an investor's original investment or any capital gains attributable to that original investment and may result in an immediate reduction in the Net Asset Value per unit.
- 3.12 Passive investments risk
The L&I product is not "actively managed" and therefore the manager of the L&I product may not adopt any temporary defensive position when the index moves in an unfavourable direction. In such circumstances the L&I product will also decrease in value.
- 3.13 Trading risk
The trading price of the units on SEHK is driven by market factors such as the demand and supply of the units. Therefore, the units may trade at a substantial premium or discount to the Net Asset Value.
As investors will pay certain charges (e.g. trading fees and brokerage fees) to buy or sell units on SEHK, investors may pay more than the Net Asset Value per unit when buying units on SEHK, and may receive less than the Net Asset Value per unit when selling units on SEHK.
- 3.14 Trading differences risk
As the overseas exchange may be open when the units are not priced, the value of any underlying index futures contracts in the L&I product's portfolio, and the value of the any constituents in the Index to which such futures contracts are linked, may change when investors may not be able to buy or sell units. Differences in trading hours between different markets may also increase the level of premium or discount of the unit price to its Net Asset Value.
- 3.15 Reliance on market maker risk
Although the L&I product manager is required to ensure that at least one market maker will maintain a market for the units and gives not less than 3 months' notice prior to termination of the market making arrangement, liquidity in the market for the units may be adversely affected if there is only one market maker for the units. There is no guarantee that any market making activity will be effective.
- 3.16 Tracking error risk
Due to fees and expenses of the L&I Product, high portfolio turnover, liquidity of the market and the investment strategy adopted by the manager of the L&I product, the L&I product's return may deviate from the daily leveraged performance of the index which the L&I product seeks to track. There can be no assurance of exact or identical replication at any time of the daily leveraged performance of the Index.
- 3.17 Termination risk
The L&I product may be terminated early under certain circumstances, for example, where there is no market maker, the index is no longer available for benchmarking or if the size of the L&I product falls below a specific value decided by the manager of L&I product. Any distribution received by a unitholder on termination of the L&I product may be less than the capital initially invested by the unitholder, resulting in a loss to the unitholder.

Virtual Assets Related Products

"Virtual assets" refers to a digital representations of value which may be in the form of digital tokens (such as cryptocurrencies, utility tokens or security or asset-backed tokens), any other virtual commodities, crypto assets or other assets of essentially the same nature, irrespective of whether they amount to "securities" or "futures contracts" as defined under the SFO, excluding digital expressed fiat currencies issued by central banks are excluded.

Dealing the virtual asset-related investment products involves significant risks. Investors should read carefully and fully understand the risks and consequences involved in buying and selling investment products related to these virtual asset transactions before trading.

Risks of dealing virtual asset trading-related investment products:

1. Risks of Virtual Nature and no Physical Form

Virtual asset has no physical form and are a digital representation of value that can be traded, transferred or used for payment or investment purposes. Examples of virtual asset include crypto assets, decentralized autonomous organisation tokens, non-fungible tokens, and tokens claiming to be backed by commodities or other underlying assets. However, virtual asset do not include digital fiat currencies.

Virtual asset is the relatively new innovation and part of a rapidly changing industry. Virtual asset and the virtual asset's industry are therefore subject to substantial speculative interest, rapid price swings and uncertainty.

Virtual asset operates without central authority (such as a bank) and is generally not backed by government. The slowing, stopping or reversing of the development or acceptance of a particular virtual asset may adversely affect the virtual asset's price.

Regulations on virtual asset are still developing and increasing. Regulatory changes or actions may materially alter the nature of an investment in a virtual asset, restrict the use and exchange of the virtual asset, or restrict the operations of the blockchain network or venues on which the virtual asset trades, in a manner that adversely affects the value of the virtual asset. In extreme cases, governmental interventions may make virtual asset illegal.

Virtual asset trading venues are relatively new and, in most cases, largely unregulated. They are typically not subject to the same robust regulation as trading platforms in traditional financial markets, and are not typically required to protect customers to the same extent that regulated securities exchanges or futures exchanges are required. Virtual asset trading platforms may therefore be more exposed to theft, fraud, failure, security breaches, market manipulation and insider dealing, compared to established, regulated exchanges for securities, derivatives and other currencies. In particular, some virtual asset trading venues collapsed or closed due to the above issues. As a result, the prices of virtual asset may be subject to larger and/or more frequent sudden declines than assets traded on more traditional exchanges.

2. Built on Blockchain Risks

Traditional transactions are built upon mutual trust. However in many trading transactions, buyers and sellers do not know each other, as such, central authorities like central banks, exchanges or banks, are needed to verify the identities of both parties, confirm and record the transactions.

But unlike traditional transactions, virtual asset are generally traded through blockchain, a decentralized system that does not require any central authority. Bitcoin is the first blockchain application. Each participant is connected to the bitcoin network via internet and becomes a 'node' of the network. All transaction verification and records will be sparsely stored in these independent nodes. When there are new transactions, the nodes will try to validate and confirm them, and add them to the blockchain so that a certain amount of bitcoin can be received as rewards. This process is known as bitcoin mining. The transaction data are organised into blocks and secured by cryptography. The new block is then connected with other blocks chronologically, forming a chain of blocks. All participants can see and check the transactions on blockchain but the data on the blockchain cannot be altered or cancelled.

As virtual asset network is generally an open-source project, the developers may suggest changes to a particular virtual asset's software from time to time. If the updated software is not compatible with the original software and a sufficient number (but not necessarily a majority) of users and miners elect not to migrate to the updated software, this would result in a "hard fork" of the virtual asset's network, with one prong running the earlier version of the software and the other running the updated software, resulting in the existence of two versions of virtual asset network running in parallel and a split of the blockchain underlying the virtual asset network. This could impact demand for the virtual asset and adversely impact the virtual asset's prices.

3. Highly Speculative Risks

Riding on the wave of bitcoin, other virtual asset are springing up in the market. According to market research, there are over 20,000 virtual assets with different features and operations. There are also other kinds of virtual asset such as non-fungible tokens, which has become an emerging asset class. Besides, there are different investment products that come with virtual asset exposure, e.g. virtual asset futures ETFs. However, many investors see virtual asset as speculation tools to capture potential massive upside gains in the short term, increasing market volatility of virtual asset.

4. Regulatory Risks

Regulations on virtual asset are still developing and increasing. Regulatory changes or actions may materially alter the nature of an investment in a virtual asset, restrict the use and exchange of the virtual asset, or restrict the operations of the blockchain network or venues on which the virtual asset trades, in a manner that adversely affects the value of the virtual asset. In extreme cases, governmental interventions may make virtual asset illegal.

Virtual asset trading venues are relatively new and, in most cases, largely unregulated. They are typically not subject to the same robust regulation as trading platforms in traditional financial markets, and are not typically required to protect customers to the same extent that regulated securities exchanges or futures exchanges are required. Virtual asset trading platforms may therefore be more exposed to theft, fraud, failure, security breaches, market manipulation and insider dealing, compared to established, regulated exchanges for securities, derivatives and other currencies. In particular, some virtual asset trading venues collapsed or closed due to the above issues. As a result, the prices of virtual asset may be subject to larger and/or more frequent sudden declines than assets traded on more traditional exchanges.

5. Risks of Regulatory Changes / Trading Restrictions / Delisting

Regulations on virtual asset may change at any time, which may cause related futures products to be suspended or stopped from trading at any time in the future, or even delisted and prohibited from being traded on exchanges. Investors may no longer be able to buy or sell these products and may therefore lose all or part of their investment, or more likely need to invest additional funds to cover losses. Investors should pay attention to regulatory changes in relevant markets.

6. Transactions in Other Jurisdictions Risks

Investor assets received or held outside Hong Kong may not be subject to the same protection as assets received or held in Hong Kong. Transactions on markets in other jurisdictions may expose you to additional risk. Such markets may be subject to regulation which may offer different or diminished investor protection. Overseas counterparties and that market are not subject to the regulation of the SFC and may be subject to laws and regulations which may be different from the SFO and the rules and regulations made thereunder and consequently, the client may not enjoy the same protection as that conferred on trading in a Hong Kong futures market

7. Other Additional Risks

Bitcoin and other virtual assets are gaining popularity and market attention as their prices have gone up drastically in the past, while blockchain technology has great potential. Yet we must understand such emerging asset's features and risks. Unlike traditional assets, virtual assets generally do not have any intrinsic value, nor are they backed by any government or bank. Their prices mainly rely on investor confidence and market demand & supply which are sensitive to market news and rumours. Besides, the scale and number of users of many virtual assets are not large and trading may not be active. This may lead to liquidity risk and potential market manipulation. Due to their virtual and digital nature, virtual assets are associated with different types of risks, including trading platform risk, cross-border risk, cyberattacks, wallet security, money laundering and terrorist financing. There are also more and more virtual asset related scams where fraudsters are using virtual assets as bait to make off with your money. Moreover, different jurisdictions may have different stances on these emerging assets. Virtual asset trading platforms may be unregulated or only subject to light regulation (i.e. subject to none or minimal investor protection measures) in different jurisdictions and there may not be sufficient protection for investors.

Risks of Dealing Virtual Assets and related ETFs

1. Investment risks

A virtual asset futures ETF obtains exposure to virtual asset primarily through futures contracts, which are traded on conventional regulated exchanges, rather than spot virtual asset that are typically traded on less regulated platforms. As such, investors in virtual asset futures ETFs are mainly subject to market risks of the underlying virtual asset and relevant futures risks while investing in spot virtual asset or other overseas virtual asset spot ETFs will be directly exposed to additional significant risks related to custody, platform, manipulation and fraud etc. Unlike passively managed ETFs that track certain underlying indices, virtual asset futures ETFs in Hong Kong generally adopt active investment strategies, to allow flexibility in portfolio composition, rolling strategy and handling of market disruption events.

Virtual asset futures ETFs do not invest directly in virtual asset and do not seek to deliver a return of the spot price of virtual asset. Investors should note that virtual asset futures are relatively new investments with limited history. They are subject to unique and substantial risks, and historically, have been subject to significant price volatility.

2. Operational Risks

Extremely high price volatility of virtual asset futures and the value of the virtual asset futures may decline significantly, including to zero. Concentration risk in a single reference asset (e.g., bitcoin or ether) and/or a single futures contract. Potentially large roll costs of virtual asset futures which may adversely affect the ETF's net asset value (NAV). Operational risks related to virtual asset futures, including additional margin requirements, potential size limits on and/or mandatory liquidation of the ETF's virtual asset futures positions imposed by relevant parties without advance notice.

3. Price Volatility Risks

A virtual asset futures ETF is indirectly exposed to the risks of the underlying virtual asset through investment in the relevant virtual asset futures, such as virtual asset is highly speculative, VA prices are extremely volatile and affected by numerous events or factors that are unforeseeable, regulations on virtual asset are still developing and increasing, etc.

The performance of a virtual asset futures ETF can significantly deviate from that of the virtual asset's spot price, because the virtual asset futures ETF invests in virtual asset futures but not in the virtual asset directly. Investor should exercise caution when trading a virtual asset futures ETF. Before investing in such ETF, particularly if investor wish to adopt a buy-and-hold strategy, investor should read this page and its offering documents carefully and fully understand its features, exposure, operation and risks. Investor should also have a clear understanding of how virtual asset futures contracts work and the rollover mechanism involved.

Investor should pay particular attention to the risks under exceptional market circumstances, such as significant or total loss of your investment in the ETF in a short period of time and how rollover of futures contracts may adversely affect the value and performance of the ETF.

Investment in virtual asset futures ETFs should only be ancillary in your portfolio because they are highly volatile and do not necessarily provide any diversification effect. If investor are not prepared to accept significant and unexpected changes in the value of a virtual asset futures ETF (including dropping to zero) and the possibility that investor could lose your entire investment in the virtual asset futures ETF, you should not invest in it.

4. "Leverage" or "Capital-Liability Ratio" Risks

Even minor market movements or changes may have a significant impact on investors' past or future deposits. Investors may lose all funds and margin initially deposited together with additional funds and margin deposited to maintain the position. If the investor fails to comply with the additional funding requirements within the specified time, the investor's position may be forced to be liquidated at a loss, and the investor will be solely responsible for any resulting losses.

5. Liquidity Risks

The liquidity or market depth of investment products in which virtual assets are underlying assets may be insufficient or even extremely low, making it difficult to close a position. Market conditions (such as inactive trading) and/or operating rules of certain trading markets (such as suspension of buying and selling of relevant contracts) may make it difficult to conduct transactions and increase the risk of loss. Therefore, there is no guarantee that investors can buy/sell such products at the target price at any time.

PART E – RISK DISCLOSURE STATEMENT RELATING TO WEALTH MANAGEMENT ACCOUNT

1. You understand that your investment in the Wealth Management Account (as defined in Section F of this Agreement) involves risks of loss to the principal.
